

Telehealth: A Viable Option For Remote Music Therapy with Allison Broaddrick, MT-BC

As someone who has always leaned into curiosity of technology and how it improves our lives, I cannot recommend Allison highly enough as a teacher of Telehealth practices! I don't know anyone else in our field who has (1) built a company with the foundation of telehealth, (2) is willing to freely share all of her tricks and tips, and (3) has explored telehealth in depth regarding tools & overcoming obstacles as much as Allison Broaddrick. || Kat Fulton, MM, MT-BC

Description: In cases of pandemics, acute weather crises, transportation problems, and ability to serve rural areas, telehealth has become more common in our field. The capability of digital technology to accommodate the needs of both therapist and client, however, is in constant flux and change.

This masterclass serves to clear up misconceptions about telehealth, demonstrate viable options for both employed music therapists, and those in private practice, and speak to the impact of telehealth on common billing practices.

Approach telehealth with confidence, tools, and the paperwork necessary to turn this idea into a viable, executable action for your practice.

Prerequisites: n/a

Board Certification Domains:

II.A.5.p.: Participants will identify 3 tools to integrate current Telehealth technology into music therapy practice according to client need.

Instructor Qualifications:

Allison is a board certified music therapist and the founder of Incadence. Allison is proud to be a leader and innovator in health care, specifically leading the way in telemedicine research and practice. While she loves working with clients of all ages and abilities, she is currently focused on helping individuals in their addiction recoveries.

Video Course Format

Section I: Introduction and Telehealth Tools (15 min)

- a. Introduction
- b. Common Misconceptions
- c. Concerns & Consent Required

Section II: Practical Setup & Billing (15 min)

- a. Practical Setup
- b. Billing

Section III: Question & Answer (20 min)

Total time: 50 minutes

Number of CMTEs: 1   Price: $0   Typical Access Period: Unlimited

Refund Policy: This is a free offering, so no money is exchanged.

CBMT Relationship: Telehealth: A Viable Option For Remote Music Therapy with Allison Broaddrick, MT-BC is approved by the Certification Board for Music Therapists (CBMT) for 1 Continuing Music Therapy Education credits. Sound Health Music, Approved Provider #P-110, maintains responsibility for program quality and adherence to CBMT policies and criteria.